1 Introduction

1.1 Use and Purpose of FISN

The Financial Instrument Short Name (FISN) is an internationally valid system to provide a consistent and uniform approach to standardise short names and descriptions in a human-readable form for financial and referential instruments in scope of the ISO 18774 FISN standard. FISN may be mandatory for regulatory reporting requirements in some jurisdictions.

The FISN is intended for use in any application in the description and administration of an instrument. The descriptions related to specific short names or developments of these codes will increase the efficient, reliable, quality, data search, consistent, uniform and transparent approach of financial services transactions.

1.2 FISN Standards, Developments and Revision Process

The development of the ISO 18774:2024 version has been in the context of current reporting regulations and the anticipation that wide-spread implementation of FISN will lead to its inclusion in an increasing range of description, reporting, transaction and risk assessment systems.

The ISO 18774:2024 provides clarification that the FISN follows in principle the CFI code categories according to ISO 10962 and addition of new instrument types to which the FISN code can be allocated (such as OTC derivatives, carbon credits, and emission certificates). In most situations, the changes in the standard are additive and will not require substitution of a new FISN to avoid ambiguity.

Existing active FISNs assigned in accordance with previous editions of the ISO 18774:2015 Standard will transition to the most recent edition, currently ISO 18774:2024.

This version continues to focus on the evolution of change in the market for instruments and the need for an on-going and timely revision. The process for updating the standard shall be conducted as part of the systematic review by ISO.

ANNA is the Registration Authority (RA) for ISO 18774 FISN: Financial Instruments Short Names and ANNA members are required to adhere to the FISN guidelines.

2 Purpose and Scope of Guidelines

2.1 Purpose

These guidelines should be read in conjunction with the ISO 18774:2024 FISN standard and are intended to assist in the allocation of robust, accurate and consistent FISN codes by ANNA members and partner numbering agencies.

2.2 Scope

These guidelines are intended to assist the process of FISN code allocation with the aid of updates from the latest edition (ISO 18774:2024).

Based on the latest changes in ISO 18774, FISN follows in principle the CFI code categories and groups according to ISO 10962, as well as the inclusion of OTC Derivatives.

2.3 Benefits

The benefits of using a robust, widely accepted FISN format enables standardised communication between financial market participants by creating a common language for describing instruments. The FISN will increase the efficiency, reliability, quality, data consistency and transparency of financial services transactions.

Moreover, classifying instruments under FISN in a consistent, structured and standardised way is also mandatory for regulatory reporting requirements in some jurisdictions.

3 The Structure of the FISN

3.1 General Background/Knowledge

The FISN provides a short human readable description for an instrument. The FISN reflects key characteristics that are defined when an instrument is issued and may be subject to change.

FISN consists of a maximum of 35 alphanumeric characters (as defined in ISO/IEC 8859-1), utilising standardised abbreviations as set out in Appendix 1. The Registration Authority has specified that the languages that can be used in the abbreviation list are English, Italian, Spanish, German and French.

3.2 FISN Key Features

The FISN is composed of 3 integral parts:

- An Issuer name with a maximum length of 15 alphanumeric characters. To ensure uniformity, the same issuer short name should be used for different instruments of the same issuer. There could be exceptions:
 - In the case of Collective Investment Vehicles (CIVs) and OTC Derivatives, the Issuer name can be extended beyond 15 alphanumeric characters up to the maximum length of the FISN.
- “/” as the delimiter between issuer name and instrument description
- An instrument description with a maximum length of 19 alphanumeric characters if the available length of the Issuer name has been fully used. If all 15 characters have not been used in the Issuer short name, the remaining space may be used to describe the key characteristics of the instrument.

A FISN has a maximum limit of 35 characters (including the delimiter).

The FISN structure conforms¹ to the following 6 points:

1. Use only upper case.
2. Use only maximum of a single blank and no special characters within Issuer and Instrument short name elements, unless specified in the FISN guidelines.
3. Use the abbreviation list provided by the RA.
4. Consideration should be given to only include elements relevant to the issuer and instrument description, avoiding use of local market or NNA specific technical terms, in line with the FISN Abbreviation list.
5. Abbreviations forming the FISN shall be separated by single space.
6. If the core instrument description abbreviated attributes do not fit within the length of the 19 character field, their exclusion should be performed in the order provided in the standard

The FISN should specify the appropriate key characteristics of the instrument.

¹ See ISO 18774 Financial Instrument Short Name \(FISN\)

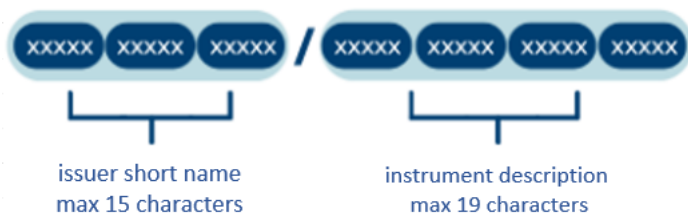

Diagram 1: FISN Pictorial Structure²

For Collective Investment Vehicles (CIVs) or OTC Derivatives Issuer name the FISN element may be different for each portion e.g. 10 characters for the Issuer name & 25 for the instrument description. Please refer to points 1 and 2 in section 3.2 under FISN structure conforms related to CIVs and OTC Derivatives, where the numbers of characters can be adjusted.

3.3 Instrument Description Examples

This section offers sample formulations for the instrument description used in the final portion of the FISN. These examples are indicative rather than exhaustive, and variations may occur across different jurisdictions. As not all attributes apply to every FISN group or instrument, the FISN aims to capture only the key characteristics in a concise format.

Where space is permitted within the FISN, the full word can be used in the descriptive portion.

3.3.1 Equity

Shares (common/ordinary):

- Abbreviated instrument type description

4 Responsibilities of the Registration Authority (RA)

ANNA, appointed by ISO as the RA for the FISN standard, is responsible for continuous maintenance and promotion of the FISN Guidelines (including changes to the abbreviation list (Appendix 1)) to meet market needs and serve as a point of escalation for inquires related to the implementation of the FISN standard.

Any queries or clarifications regarding the FISN Guidelines, including the assignment process should be directed to the ANNA Secretariat – secretariat@anna-web.org.

5 FISN Maintenance

5.1 Scenarios for changes to FISN

The FISN reflects key characteristics that are defined when an instrument is issued and remains unchanged during its entire lifetime. Below is a list of scenarios where a FISN may change, without being an exhaustive list:

1. Issuer or Fund name change.
2. Subdivision.
3. Consolidation.
4. Capital reorganisation.
5. Par/Nominal value change.
6. Change of Expiry or Maturity date.
7. Change of form (e.g. from Registered to Bearer/Registered).
8. Voting rights are changed through stockholders' meeting.
9. Payment status is changed from Nil paid to Partly or Fully paid, or from Partly paid to Fully paid
10. For Funds - change of class or distribution policy and/or currency.
11. Change from Closed-end to Open-end fund or vice-versa, change of asset allocation, according to the decision of the Fund managers or Stockholders.
12. Interest rate change (in securities representing Debt with a fixed interest rate)

5.2 FISN Process

The primary objective of the FISN is to present concise descriptive data alongside an ISIN assigned in accordance with ISO 6166.

FISNs will be assigned automatically by the responsible Numbering agency as part of the ISIN allocation process, where the applicant is any entity as outlined in the latest ISIN Guidelines.³ FISN allocation should occur in parallel with ISIN assignment.

5.2.1 FISN Dissemination

ANNA, through its ANNA Service Bureau (ASB) will make FISNs available as part of the ISIN record to ASB subscribers and via the free ISIN Lookup Service. Each relevant NNA is responsible for ensuring the FISN is available to its local market participants.

The Derivatives Service Bureau (DSB) will make FISN available as part of the ISIN record for OTC Derivatives.
